

BatchMaster ERP for Fuel & Lubricants

Keeps your business running smoothly

The growth of sectors like automotive, industrial manufacturing, and agriculture, where machine-operated dependency is quite high, has resulted in growth of fuel & lubricants industry too, as the aforementioned end-use industries have generated massive demand for fuel & lubricants. However, along with this rising demand, the fuel & lubricants industry has to face challenges on multiple fronts. Volatile prices of raw materials, increasingly stringent environmental regulations, ever-changing complex formation requirements, operating at wafer-thin profit margins etc. are some of the many challenges fuel & lubricants manufacturers face.

BatchMaster ERP for Fuel & Lubricants is one-stop solution that allows them overcome such unique challenges. It helps your fuel & lubricants manufacturing business increase operational efficiency, maximize asset uptime, optimize parts utilization to have uninterrupted production flow, avoid unplanned shutdowns due to crude oil or ingredient chemicals shortage, improve workforce productivity along with adhering to workplace safety standards, get rid of error-prone manual processes, perform tedious laboratory calculations based on physical properties, manage numerous formulae by simply modifying or substituting a chemical, but securing the original formula, among other things.
